

Available October 2009

Advance orders being taken NOW!

Arcadia Publishing
presents another in it's
"Images of America" series!

By department historian
Firefighter Roger H. LaPointe

In 1820, a group of Leominster volunteers formed Engine Company No. 1 "in the interest of protecting the rights of the settlers in case of fire."

Leominster Firefighting features more than 200 images and photographs from the early days of the hadn tubs and horse-drawn hose carts of the 1800s to the 20th century when motorized apparatus arrived. It provides a glimpse into the many traditions that have been passed from one generation to the next and a look into fire has changed the look of Leominster today.

Fill out and print this form

Yes! Please reserve _____ copies of Leominster Firefighting at a price of $21.99 each.

(+ $3.00 shipping)

Your name:

Address:

City:

State:

Zip:

Phone:

Email:

Send with payment to: Roger LaPointe
192 Helena Street
Leominster, MA 01453